

Creative Curriculum Challenge 5

British Butterfly Challenge (Science)

This challenge requires you to look really carefully, move really slowly and record what you see.

While you're in the garden, local park or wherever you're spending your time on your daily walk, can you see how many species of native butterflies you can spot?

There are plenty of guides available to help you with this. Some butterflies look really similar, so pay close attention to their markings.

THE BOX

Stretch Challenge

Can you make drawings of the butterflies you spot, showing the different markings them? Add a museum-type label with the name of the butterfly and where you spotted it too.

Some species are really rare, so we'd love to know what you find and where!

Once you've completed your challenge, send us a photo theboxlearning@plymouth.gov.uk by the end of Sunday. We'll pick a lucky winner (under 18s only) to receive a bag of goodies from our shop! Make sure you add it to your school home learning book too.
